Funding

Bedford County Schools Funding

Source: State of TN Report Card Data 2017/18

The Basic Education Program (BEP) is the main source of K-12 education funding in Tennessee. It has two parts: a state share, and a required local match contributed by local districts. State and local shares are set based on a county's fiscal capacity, or ability to raise revenue. Counties with higher fiscal capacities receive less state funding and must contribute more local matching dollars than counties with less ability to raise local revenue.

The BEP is split into four main categories, which together contain 45 different components that generate funding but districts have flexibility on how to spend their BEP money. For this reason, the BEP is often referred to as a funding formula, not a spending plan.

For more information on BEP go to:

<http://www.comptroller.tn.gov/OREA/bep>

FUNDING SOURCES DEFINED

State Funding

The largest source of funding for our school system comes from The State of Tennessee. State revenue sources for education include the state sales tax, mixed drink tax and cigarette tax.

Local Funding

The second largest source of funding comes locally from Bedford County. The primary sources of local revenue are derived from property and sales tax. State law requires that $\frac{1}{2}$ of a county's local sales tax be allocated to their school system.

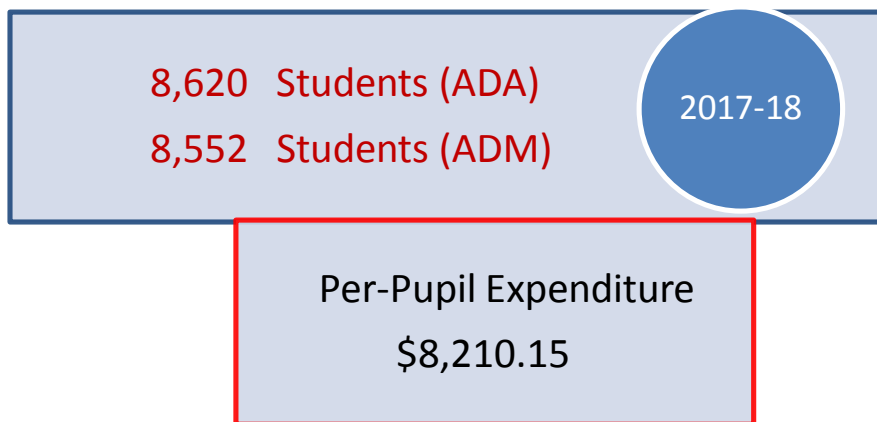

Federal Funding

The third source of funding is from the federal government. Federal funds cannot be used for general operations of the school system.

Other Funding

Other funding might come in the form of grants or donations from community organizations and business, or federal grants not considered as federal projects, all of which are normally designated for specific purposes and not for the general operation of the system. Reserves from fund balance might also be used to balance the budget.

Enrollment – Average Daily Membership or ADM is one way to measure student enrollment. Another measure, often used for federal reporting requirements is Average Daily Attendance (ADA). ADM counts how many students are enrolled in a school while ADA counts how often these students attend school. The state uses ADA in report card calculations.

Per Pupil Expenditure –The state’s formula for calculating Per Pupil Expenditure (PPE) is to divide operating expenditures by ADA. The state excludes from consideration expenditures such as capital outlay, community services, etc. that may not be incurred as a day-to-day operational expense.

TOTAL APPROPRIATIONS

$82,213,551

General Purpose (141) – This section of the budget outlines funding and expenditures for general purpose operations of the school system. It also includes some federal grants revenue for grants such as Counseling, History, Math-Science Partnership, which are not technically considered federal projects.

Much of this funding goes to support students who are economically disadvantaged or students with disabilities.

Child-Nutrition (143) – Child nutrition is primarily funded through the federal government with pass-thru funding and is basically a self-sustaining program.

School-Age Care Program (146) – SACP is a self-funded program paid for primarily by user fees.

General Purpose Budget

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

What about building funds? Funds for general maintenance and upkeep of buildings are included in the capital outlay portion of the general purpose budget. Funding for new construction of schools and major additions or renovations must be approved by the County Commission.

What is fiscal capacity? Fiscal capacity is a statistical estimate of a county's relative ability to raise revenue and a primary equalization instrument in the BEP. It is calculated using a 50/50 blend of two statistical models that consider different criteria (TACIR and CBER models).

TACIR determines fiscal capacity using three year averages of the following factors for each of the 95 counties: Own-Source Revenue Per Pupil, Taxable Sales Per Pupil, Equalized Property Assessment Per Pupil, and Equalized Residential and Farm Assessment Divided by Total Equalized Assessment (Tax Burden).

In the CBER Model, property taxes and sales taxes are the only two variables used. The CBER model applies uniform tax rates to a standard set of tax bases. Fiscal capacity is calculated by multiplying each county's sales tax and property tax base times the average tax rate for each tax base across the state. The tax rates are calculated as the average use of each base by local governments for education.

For more information on the BEP, visit: www.tn.gov/sbe/bep.shtml or access the comptroller's new BEP calculator at <http://www.comptroller.tn.gov/orea/bep>

Frequently Asked Questions Use of Fund Balance and Maintenance of Effort (MOE)

When may the fund balance be budgeted by the LEA?

TCA 49-3-352 provides that "Any accumulated fund balance in excess of three percent (3%) of the budgeted annual operating expenses for the current fiscal year may be budgeted and expended for any education purposes, but must be recommended by the Board of Education prior to appropriation by the local legislative body." This portion of the statute refers only to the ability of the LEA to budget a portion of the fund balance.

What is the appropriate use of the fund balance?

TCA 49-3-352 states that the fund balance "shall be available to offset shortfalls of budgeted revenues or, subject to 49-2-301(b)(1)(W), shall be available to meet unforeseen increases in operating expenses". Subject to the approval of the Board of Education, the State Department of Education and, in most cases, the local funding agent, the fund balance may decrease below 3% in the event of unforeseen events. This provision should only be cited for truly unforeseen or emergency purposes.

Can the fund balance be used to meet the Maintenance of Effort test of the Department of Education?

The fund balance is not a part of the Maintenance of Effort test. MOE compares budgeted local revenue for the current year to budgeted local revenue, as amended, for the prior year. The local funding agency is required to fund at least the same amount as the prior year, except in cases of declining enrollment. In the case of declining enrollment, the budgeted per pupil amount from the current year is compared to that of the prior year, as amended, and must be the same or greater for the current year. Budgeting any or all of the allowable portion of the fund balance does not relieve the funding body of its maintenance of effort requirement.

How is the BEP Reserve treated under GASB 54?

The BEP Reserve will be considered a restricted balance, in accordance with TCA 49-2-203 which states "No LEA shall submit a budget to the local legislative body that directly or indirectly supplants or proposes to use state funds to supplant any local current operation funds, excluding capital outlay and debt service." Although not explicit in the law, it is implicit that the under-collection of local revenues results in a supplanting of state funds. For this reason, the BEP reserve will be considered to be restricted.

How may the BEP Reserve be expended?

The BEP Reserve may only be expended on non-recurring expenditures, such as capital outlay. It may not be used to meet ordinary operating expenses. If not fully expended following year, the remaining amount will be carried forward, still as a restricted balance.

This past summer — just like every summer before — a familiar scene played out in Madison County. While the key actors change from time to time, the two principal roles are always the same. The first role is the Superintendent of Jackson-Madison County Schools, now played by Dr. Eric Jones. The second role is the Madison County Commission, the local funding body of the public school system.

This summer, the scene opened with Jones' funding request for the upcoming academic year. The ensuing discussions and decisions were much less contentious than in years past. In fact, the Madison County Commission unanimously approved the school budget in both required readings, and Jones got the $103.3 million he was requesting.

Mostly, anyway. While Jones did secure approval for the school system's operating budget for 2018-2019, he is still awaiting a firm commitment for his 10-year, $144 million capital improvements plan. And while the county commission voted for the operating budget with little haggling, there is evidence to suggest Madison County could support its local public schools with significantly more funds.

A complete explanation of Madison County's present funding levels of JMCSS begins with a historical understanding of public school funding in Tennessee.

Basics of school funding in Tennessee

In the late 1980s, 77 small, rural school districts across the state joined together to file a lawsuit against the State of Tennessee and then-Gov. Ned McWherter, claiming the state's funding system violated students' rights to equal protection under the law. The claim was based on the fact that students in districts that were small and rural — and generally less wealthy — did not have the same level of access to quality educational resources and opportunities as did students in larger, more affluent districts. The legal battle went all the way to the Tennessee Supreme Court, which ruled in favor of the small districts and gave birth to a completely new funding system called the Basic Education Program (BEP).

Thus, the Madison County Commission is held to a bottom-line funding requirement by both the maintenance of effort law and the mandated local amount set by the state's BEP calculations. Public school advocates in Madison County often criticize the county commission for not providing more funds than the bare minimum required by law.

Truth about the '65 percent'

On occasion, reports about local school funding mention that the county commission spends a vast majority of its budget on Jackson-Madison County Schools. Incoming commissioner Tommy Gobbell repeated the claim in a Jackson Sun article just after winning his primary election in May.

Gobbell is quoted as stating, "About 65 percent of county funds go to the schools. I'd like to see stability in the superintendent's office, and more accountability by the administration and school board about money they're already getting."

The county's 2016-2017 budget even included a graph that indicated 65 percent of all projected expenditures were allocated to education, meaning JMCSS. No other expense item even came close to the amount spent on schools, with the "justice" spending category a distant second at 15 percent.

The claim that the county spends 65 percent of its budget on public education is incomplete at best, and misleading at worst. The 65 percent comes from the fact that in the past fiscal year, $126.6 million was spent on JMCSS out of a total budget of $195.7 million. However, this school allocation includes all the money from both the state and federal governments, $51.9 million and $28.3 million respectively. The state and federal governments use the county coffers as a conduit through which their funds are dispersed. The county commission is neither raising nor controlling these funds. Instead, the county commission acts more like a fiduciary trustee in that the money simply passes through the county's books.

Even describing the commission's recent approval of Jones' $103.3 million operating budget for 2018-2019 deserves more explanation. Of that amount, $53 million is state money. After ignoring a few minor revenue sources, local taxes designated for the operation of JMCSS comes to only $47 million, barely 20 percent of the county's total budget.

Fiscal capacity and fiscal reality

A county's fiscal capacity does not determine its financial commitment to education. Instead, one way this commitment can be determined is to compare the actual spending with the fiscal capacity. The Tennessee Department of Education releases key funding measures for each district, including the annual per pupil expenditure and the percentage for each funding source. With this data, a simple calculation reveals the amount of funding for Jackson-Madison County Schools that is paid using local money.

In 2016-17, which is the most recent funding data provided by TDOE, the JMCSS per pupil expenditure was $10,041, slightly ahead of the state average of $9,648. That same year, the local funding percentage was 41.34 percent, meaning local funds allotted by the Madison County Commission amounted to $4,151 per student.

In that fiscal year, the difference between the actual funding provided by the county commission and Madison County's fiscal capacity created a deficit of $214 per student. On the surface, a discrepancy this small may not seem alarming, even though it represented an "underfunding" of JMCSS. An understanding of the situation becomes clearer when Madison County is compared to the other counties with high levels of fiscal capacity.

In fact, no other county in the top seven underfunds their local public school system based on this metric.

Table 2 includes the same seven counties, along with their local funding amount and the difference between actual funding and capacity. All counties on the list — other than Madison County — have found a way to fund their public schools using locally generated revenues beyond their TACIR-calculated fiscal capacity. This type of "overfunding" paints a favorable picture of the commitment of these communities to support public education financially.

When Madison County's funding deficit is calculated as a total amount instead of a per pupil amount, the situation worsens. In the 2016-17 school year, JMCSS reported 12,105 students as its average daily membership, the measurement used by the TDOE for funding allocations. Based on that student count, the per pupil funding deficit of $214 expands rapidly to a total deficit of almost $2.6 million.

This total measure of underfunding puts Madison County near the bottom of the list when compared to the other 94 counties in the state. In fact, Madison County's total deficit

This local revenue amount is also tracked by TACIR, whose officials describe the measure as “a three-year average based on the own-source revenue used by local government to fund education.”

TACIR has already released the numbers for the upcoming 2018-2019 fiscal year. Madison County’s fiscal capacity has increased, a positive indication of continued economic strength of the community. However, the funding shortfall for JMCSS has also increased, a negative indication of the county commission’s seeming lack of commitment to provide the school funds that it has the capacity to generate.

For the upcoming fiscal year, Madison County’s improved fiscal capacity of $4,597 per pupil is far higher than the actual revenue of only $3,951 per pupil. This $646 per pupil gap translates to a total shortfall of over $8 million when multiplied by the district’s projected enrollment of 12,480 students.

Thus, the situation for the upcoming fiscal year mirrors that of the 2016-2017 fiscal year. Madison County’s coveted rank of 6th in the state in terms of ability to raise revenues for its public schools plummets to a rank of 92nd in terms of the total amount it falls short of capacity.

The conclusion to both of these assessments is as obvious as it is unavoidable: Madison County simply does not financially support Jackson-Madison County Schools at the high

Which came first?

Any discussion of school funding would be incomplete without connecting per pupil expenditures to academic outcomes. It is widely known that Jackson-Madison County Schools continue to be plagued by academic achievement and growth measures that are anemic.

The academic woes and funding shortfalls are somewhat of a chicken-or-egg situation. Did the chronic underperformance of the school district set the stage for chronic underfunding, or did the chronic underfunding by the county commission contribute to the district’s chronic underperformance?

Jones is less interested in chasing the answer to that question and focused instead on the dilemma at hand. He understands the commission’s desire to see the district move the needle on academic growth before they allocate more funding for schools. However, he likens that position to a sick person seeking medical treatment.

We hope you join us on our journey as we trace the money trail in funding education for our children; discover how quality schools improve quality of life for everyone; uncover how private schools maintain their unique identities, along with their principles; and the impact the public/private school choice has on the surrounding community.

This four-part series is the result of Union University Associate Dean of Education Ben Phillips spending his summer hard at work investigating the various issues that influence education in our community.

Coming next Sunday

Where is this extra money the Madison County Commission could be giving to JMCSS? How could the county raise the funds to more fully support its public schools? And, why should every citizen of Madison County care, even if they have no children in the public schools?

You'll find answers to those questions in next week's story on "Schools, taxes and the health of our community."

Facilities Pay Study

February 28, 2020

To Mr. Don Embry

The purpose for this report

Mr. Embry,

Firstly, I acknowledge and appreciate the steps that you and the school board have taken the past recent years to increase the pay scale for our Facilities Department.

The purpose for this report is to hopefully paint a clear picture of where we are with our pay scale as compared to the relevant market place and to express and explain the criticalness of why I believe we should raise the pay scale.

We have had and continue to have excessive employee turnover.

This matters because we lose good people who are already trained in our programs.

We must spend hours and hours looking for new prospects.

When we find new prospects we are forced to do approximately ten interviews to find one candidate that can pass a background check.

After we find that special candidate that is willing (for various reasons) to take a difficult job at less pay than almost everywhere in the county, we start training...then they either figure out that the job is too difficult or one of the other employers offers them 50 cents more and they change jobs.

We haven't been fully staffed for over a year and the very real struggle is getting worse.

I'm concerned about quality work.

We have all taken pride in the cleanliness of our schools in the past, but currently we are struggling.

As I write this we have seven schools that are not fully staffed and we have several open Grounds and Maintenance positions as well.

Our good people can cover when their coworker is out for a few days but when a few days turns into months then even the strongest employees feel like they are failing and that leads to poor performance from them as well.

I'm very concerned because:

I want our department to succeed and without the right people we can't.

I want you, the school board, the principals, teachers and students to be proud of their schools and have a clean and healthy space to teach and learn in.

The good folks that work for us cannot fail and be happy. The additional load that we put on our best workers takes a toll and the risk of losing them gets even higher.

It's across the board.

The lack of Custodial and Grounds staff becomes apparent in a short amount of time however the same holds true with our Maintenance staff although it's not as quickly noticeable.

Please see this report and know that I have spent the time to create it in hopes that we may take the steps to avoid a personnel crisis in our Facilities Departments. My only desired outcome is to be able to hire and retain the right people so that we can continue to do a great job cleaning and maintaining all the properties in our school system.

As always thank you for your continued support,
Respectfully Submitted,

Daniel M. Kleindienst
Director Environmental Services

Summary Page

Our current pay scale.

Our current pay scale starts at 9.18 for custodians (paygrade 3) and even at 5 years it is still only 9.85 per hour!

Recommended Facilities Pay Scale

The recommended pay scale represents only the pay grades relevant to the Facilities Department.

I have changed the starting rate (0 years experience) to an amount that I believe would be closer to our competitors starting pay rates.

Most of the emphasis of the pay increase would be in the first 5 years of employment with each year being increased by 5%. In the following years the step raises are increased by either 4/10ths of 1% or on some lines 8/10ths of 1%.

The rationale behind loading up the first 5 years is this... if we can start an employee at a higher rate and keep them for 5 years then they will be fully trained and also be less likely to seek other employment.

The Cost

I have run the numbers. The additional cost to the school system to increase facilities pay will be roughly $250,000 per year plus any benefit costs. This is a large number but in perspective it is about 2.9% of the entire facilities budget.

(There are also costs associated with not increasing the pay but those costs are hard to quantify. They would be realized in continued staff turnover and less overall quality.)

The Collage

The collage you see represents about 15 minutes of my time driving down Madison and Main streets noticing the “Now Hiring” signs!

Open Positions Graph

The graph shows the number of unfilled positions in red, the number of filled positions in blue and the date at the bottom. (those numbers represent full and part time and not necessarily FTE's.)

Other Pay Rates

We have included some comparison charts with our starting pay rates verses some of our local competitor employers.

EXCLUDING COVERAGE FOR SPOUSES - Agency Guide for Required Declaration Document

At its May 25, 2016 meeting, the Insurance Committee approved a change to the plan document that would PERMIT local education and local government agencies to deny health insurance coverage to the spouses of employees if the spouse is employed and eligible for group health insurance through their own employer. This change does not mandate anything. It simply allows LE and LG agencies to implement this practice if they so choose using the agency's process to approve such changes. The following LE and LG Plan Document change became effective June 1, 2016:

1.11 "Dependents"

Dependents shall mean:

(A) A legally married spouse; individual agencies may deny eligibility to the spouses of employees who are eligible for group health insurance through the spouses' employers.

NOTE: Agencies opting to exclude coverage for spouses must submit a declaration document to Benefits Administration 30 days prior to the beginning of the Plan's Annual Enrollment Period (or upon electing to participate in the Plan). Agencies should copy and paste the appropriate text below onto the agency's letterhead, complete the appropriate sections, and make sure the declaration is signed and dated prior to sending it to Benefits Administration.

Send completed declaration documents by mail, fax or email to Holly Girgies at:

Mail: DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE AND ADMINISTRATION - BENEFITS ADMINISTRATION

[Agency Name] WILL deny eligibility to spouses of employees who are eligible for group health insurance through the spouses' employers. The Effective Date of this decision will be January 1 of the Plan Year following the date of the authorized agency representative's signature on this declaration document.

[Add one of the following statements to your declaration document and initial beside that statement.]

___[Agency Name] WILL distinguish between spouses of existing employees and spouses of new hires with regard to offering insurance coverage. Coverage WILL be extended to spouses of employees hired prior to the Effective Date of the spousal exclusion. As long as those employees and their spouses continue to be eligible, and the spouses are already covered prior to the Effective Date of the exclusion, coverage will continue after the Effective Date of the exclusion. Spouses of employees hired after the Effective Date of the exclusion WILL NOT be eligible for coverage if eligible for group insurance coverage through the spouse's employer.

___[Agency Name] WILL NOT distinguish between spouses of existing employee and spouses of new hires with regard to offering insurance coverage. Coverage WILL NOT be extended to any spouse who is eligible for group health insurance through the spouse's employer. This means that some spouses who are currently covered may be denied eligibility as of the Effective Date of the agency's decision to exclude spousal coverage.

[All agencies include the following statements in your declaration document and initial beside each]

___[Agency Name] understands that denial of coverage for spouses is an individual agency decision and not mandated by plan policy or law.

___[Agency Name] understands that once the agency has opted to deny coverage for spouses, the agency may only reverse that decision by notifying Benefits Administration in writing and requesting to revoke this declaration document. Agency understands that a request to revoke this declaration document may only be made once during the Plan Year and must be received by Benefits Administration 30 days prior to the beginning of the plan's annual enrollment period. Agency further understands that the effective date of a reversal will be January 1 of the Plan Year immediately following receipt of the agency's request to revoke the agency's decision to deny spousal coverage.

___[Agency Name] understands that there is no mechanism in Edison to block an employee's election to add spousal coverage. It is the agency's responsibility to inform employees of the agency's position regarding spousal coverage. New hires should be informed of the agency's position on spousal coverage during orientation and existing employees should be informed when requesting coverage changes impacting spouses and prior to the beginning of the plan's annual enrollment period.

___[Agency Name] understands that it is the agency's responsibility to monitor enrollment through available queries and notify Benefits Administration of any errors.

All days shall begin to count at 7:45 a.m. the day following the day on which the time limits are based. After the last day of the normal school year, "days" shall be Central Office workdays.

B. Procedures

The parties hereto acknowledge that it is usually most desirable for an employee and his immediately involved supervisor to resolve problems through free and informal communications. When requested by the employee, an Association representative may accompany the employee to assist the informal resolution of the grievance. If, however, the informal process fails to satisfy the employee or the Association, a grievance may be processed as follows:

Step 1: The Association on behalf of the employee must present the grievance in writing to the direct supervisor within twenty (20) days of the time the employee learns or could reasonably be expected to learn of the alleged violation. The direct supervisor will arrange for a meeting within five (5) days after receipt of the grievance. The Association's representative, the grievant, and the direct supervisor shall be present for the meeting. Within five (5) days of the meeting, the grievant and the Association shall be provided with the supervisor's written response, including the reasons for the decision.

Step 2: If the grievance is not resolved at Step I, then the Association may appeal the grievance to the Superintendent within six (6) days after receipt of the Step I answer or within eleven (11) days after the Step I meeting, whichever is the latter. The superintendent shall arrange with the Association representative for a meeting to take place within five (5) days to the Superintendent's receipt of the appeal. Each party shall have the right to include in its representation such witnesses and counselors, as it deems necessary. Within five (5) days after the meeting, the grievant and the Association shall be provided with the Superintendent's written response, including the reason for the decision.

Step 3: If the grievance is not resolved at Step 2, then the Association may appeal the grievance to the Board within six (6) days after receipt of the Step 2 answer or within eleven (11) days after the Step 2 meeting, whichever is the latter. The request shall be made in writing and submitted through the Office of the Superintendent, who shall attach all related documents and forward the request to the Board committee. The Board committee, within twenty (20) days, shall review the case and shall hold a hearing if so requested by the grievant. The Superintendent will arrange the meeting. Each party shall have the right to include in its representation such witnesses and counselors, as it deems necessary. Within ten (10) days after the hearing, the grievant and the Association shall be provided with the Board's written response, including the reasons for the decisions.

Step 4: If the Association is not satisfied with the disposition of the grievance at Step 3 or the time limits expire without the issuance of the Board's written reply, the Association may submit the grievance to arbitration under the Voluntary Labor Arbitration Rules of the American Arbitration Association, which shall act as the administrator of the proceedings. If a demand for arbitration is not filed within thirty (30) days of the date for the Step 3 answer, then the grievance shall be deemed withdrawn.

- A. Neither the Board nor the Association shall be permitted to assert any grounds or evidence before the arbitrators, which was not previously disclosed to the other party.
- B. The arbitrator shall have no power to alter the terms of this Agreement.
- C. The arbitrator is empowered to award reinstatement, financial reimbursement, damages and/or other remedies.
- D. The two parties will share the fees and expenses of the arbitrator equally.
- E. Unless the arbitrator's decision is rejected by a majority vote of the membership of the Board at the next regular board meeting following the arbitrator's decision, the arbitrator's decision is binding. If the arbitrator's decision is rejected by the Board of Education, the Association shall be notified in writing of the decisions and the reasons for the decision.

C. General

1. Each grievance must be processed through all levels, each in its turn, as provided in Section B of this article, or until withdrawn. However, if the Association and the Superintendent agree, Step 1 of the grievance procedure may be by-passed and the grievance brought directly to Step 2.
2. Class grievances involving one or more employees may be filed by the Association at Step 2.
3. The investigating, preparing, or processing of a grievance by the grievant may not be done during the regular school day.
4. All documents, communications, and records dealing with the processing of a grievance shall be filed separately from the personnel files of the participants.
5. A grievance may be withdrawn at any level without establishing a precedent.
6. The Board acknowledges the right of the Association to have representation at any level of the grievance process. No employee (including administration) shall be required to discuss any grievance without representation, if such is desired.
7. Nothing herein, shall prevent the grievant, the Association, or the Board from pursuing enforcement of this contract in court, and there is no requirement that all steps of the grievance procedure must be exhausted.

Good morning Robert,

I agree with John's assessment of $21mm in bonding capacity for 20 years at 3.5%. If we lengthen the amortization to 25 years and increase the budget rate to 3.75%, then you would have about $24mm in bonding capacity.

If you would like, we can send over any schedules that you would need for analysis, and if you have an estimate on the project size and/or the revenue a penny on the tax rate brings in, we could run a few scenarios to assist you.

Thanks,
Chris

Are you interested in the most up-to-date decisions regarding school law cases in Tennessee as well as the rest of the nation? Do you want to know what laws were passed by the General Assembly in the last session? Then this training is for you! During this meeting participants are provided with a review of new and relevant state laws, in addition to state and federal school-related court decisions.

The annual Summer Law Institute sponsored by TSBA, in conjunction with the Tennessee Council of School Board Attorneys, is a seminar held each summer for school board members, superintendents, and school board attorneys. We will be hosting two institutes, one in East Tennessee and the other in West Tennessee.

Major topics covered during this seminar include:

- Responding to an Actual Violent Crisis
